Fenton's Open Book (store) agrees to:

- Display your books for an initial period of four months. If no sales are made during that 4-month period, or any 6-month period, the author will be notified and the books removed from the shelf. It is the author's responsibility to pick up the unsold books, send a shipping label for their return, or direct the store to donate them. If they are not picked up within 30 days after notification, they become the property of the store.
- Pay 60% of the book list price as they are sold. Checks are distributed quarterly, usually in February, May, August, and November unless other arrangements are made.
- Make every effort to front-face the book, and indicate it is written by a local author.
- Fenton's Open Book is not responsible for loss of books or products.

Author agrees to:

- Leave no more than 3 of each title at the store, unless mutually agreed upon by the author and store owner. Maximum of 4 titles will be carried.
- Be responsible to check inventory, and bring additional books if desired. You can call the store during business hours to have the staff check your inventory / sales.
- If you participate in an in-store book signing, the store will handle all sales. No money will be collected by the author. Payment for books sold at a signing will be distributed within 30 days of the event.

I agree to the conditions of consignment with Fenton's Open Book.
